Dear Fly Fishing Enthusiasts

Many, many thanks to our awesome fishing customers who attended our presentation and visited our booth during our January shows in Boise and Bozeman. It's always such a great time for us to mingle with fishermen.

January was a bit slow for winter dry fly fishing because of the warmer temps and early runoff, higher water levels, discolored water, and debris floating in the river. The bug hatches will always be off in those conditions. Get ready because those conditions are changing, and the midge and BWO hatches will again appear. So don't give up on the winter patterns that you may have purchased, because their moment will soon come. We're already getting reports from the "O" and South Fork that the "afternoon sippers" are back along with the hatches. The single upright wing BWO has been the ticket recently.

New products to DFI include two patterns: the Pink Searcher (#16) and the Black Drake (#16, #14). We are doing the final rendering on DFI's upcoming video: Tie Magic Volume 1. We will be tying six of our exclusive patterns (3 small bugs and 3 big bugs) and demonstrating the deliveries and nuances of how to fish the bug. Stay tune for preview clips of this video on the website.

We are updating our Colossal [all season] fly boxes with some of our new patterns, but we still have a few of our "First Generation" Colossal boxes left. Normally sold at $307, we are offering a special: While supplies last, you can get an Umpqua Professional fly box filled with 12 dozen flies that you can fish with year-round for $250 plus $4.95 shipping.

For our fly tying clients, we are now stocking Tiemco hooks on selected sizes in 100 pack boxes. There are no or very few retailers that sell the 100 packs and there is an enormous saving by purchasing by the 100s. We'd like to share that savings to you. These are the exact hooks we use to tie almost all of our patterns. If you wish to replicate, we'd like make the hooks available to you for your needs.

Coming in March:

See you at the Idaho Sportsmen Show (Boise) Show March 3-6 and the Central Oregon Sport Show (Redmond) March 10-13. We will be presenting and doing fly tying theaters at both venues.
